VOLUME LXV., NUMBER 3. REDWOOD CITY, SAN MATEO COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, APRIL 18, 1925. ESTABLISHED 1859

KIWANIS SHOW DRAWS LARGE AUDIENCE

"The Woman Spy", the first public appearance of the now celebrated theatrical troop, was shown before a filled house last night at the Sequoia High School auditorium. The production was one that will be long remembered in the theatrical annals of Redwood City, and it is reported that many of the sedate business men of Redwood City are now contemplating going to Hollywood and forsaking their professions.

Dr. Norman MacKenzie, who starred as the leading lady has received an offer from a movie concern to understudy Nazi Mova, and Sam Winkelbleck as Ruby, the Red Cross nurse, has entered a career which bids fair to outshine Norma Talmadge. Ruby's dimples should win her fame on any screen.

Otis M. Carrington as Chang, gave a very creditable imitation of an Oriental Sherlock Holmes and was assisted in his detecting by Mike, Zepho Thorning.

Ernest Lock as Maud and Wm. Kelly as Miss Beckey Bloom also did work equal to any screen vamp. J. D. Hedge had the leading male role as Sinclare, and Dr. John Blood as Jason Craig, a farmer and Josh a country constable, completed the list, with the exception of the awkward squad consisting of Asa Hull, Dan Flynn, George Tudhope, Phil Brand, John Poole, Henry Steinberger and George Kneese

The plot of the play centered around the theft of the government plans for the spring crop by Sinclare, who is a crook, and the regaining of the plans and the arrest of Sinclare. Much detecting is done and the culprit is finally taken in tow by the awkward squad.

Large Ship Visits Redwood City This Week

The largest ship that ever entered the Redwood City harbor came in on the high tide early Thursday morning and tied up at the Portland Cement Company's wharf. The vessel was the S. S. Silverado, belonging to the McCormick line, which makes regular trips between San Francisco and Portland, Oregon. From now on one of the McCormick line steamers will come here every week for part of her load.

At 9 o'clock a. m. workmen started loading cement at the rate of 2300 bags an hour, which equals 575 barrels and by 7:30 p.m. 3000 barrels had been taken on and the ship went out on the high tide direct to Portland, Oregon.

What will probably be of more interest to the people of this community is the announcement that the chemical department at the plant has just about perfected a process whereby the smoke nuisance will be eliminated. They expect by this process ti make the smoke and vapor invisible.

The plant now turns out about 3000 barrels of cement per day and when the other units are built this capacity will be trebled.

GOVERNOR VETOES ANNEXATION BILL

There will be no annexation of San Mateo county land to Palo Alto or San Francisco, not for the time being at least. The two bills passed by the state legislature which would have made it possible for a city in one county to annex territory in another county were this week vetoed by the governor.

The bills were introduced by a senator from Santa Clara county with the idea of making it possible for Palo Alto to annex Ravenswood and other contiguous territory on this side of the San Francisquito creek. The bills would also have made possible the extension of San Francisco down the peninsula.

The bill introduced by Assemblyman Eksward of this county granting the control of tide lands in South San Francisco harbor to the city of South San Francisco passed the legislature and was this week signed by Governor Richardson. This is considered a forerunner of extensive harbor improvement in the northern end of the county.

WOODSIDE

The first destructive fire of this season took place Sunday morning when the handsome old residence of Robert Coombs, adjoining the Dimond place, was completely destroyed. The fire broke out between two and three o'clock in the morning and was well under way before any means could be taken to control it. The cause has not been determined.

James J. Fagan and family moved into their Woodside home two weeks ago under the impression that summer had arrived. The rainy weather and the muddy roads convinced them of their mistake and they journeyed back to the city to await more settled weather conditions.

An unusual throng of worshippers crowded our Woodside church on Sunday for the Easter services.

A third bus had to be requisitioned before the passengers could be returned to the place from which they started.

has been recognized as one of the really outstanding his sound judgment have commanded the attention and the leaders.

Senator Shortridge has consistently stood by and with the President. During the trying times when others would have tied President Coolidge's hands, the senator from California stayed loyally with his chief. Because of his loyalty the President has made Mr. Shortridge one of his confidential advisors. He has also intrusted him with important duties in the senate. California is fortunate in having a man of Senator Shortridge's ability as one of its representatives. He demonstrates the fact that he is an earnest, honest statesman. We trust that he will be retained in his present position for many years as he is one of the best senators California has ever had to look after its affairs in Washington.

ONE HUNDRED FIFTY YEARS

"Listen my Children and you shall hear
Of the midnight ride of Paul Revere
On the 18th of April in Seventy-five
Hardly a man is now alive
Who remembers that famous day and year
And the midnight ride of Paul Revere."

One hundred and fifty years ago today Paul Revere took his famous ride from Charleston shore out to Lexington and then on to Concord and later that day. "By the rude bridge that spanned the tide a shot was fired that was heard around the world."

A century and a half of history has been made since that gallant warrior sped his steed through every Middleser village and farm and awakened the people so that they might be ready. It has been history that has changed all of the civilized world.

Shortly after the famous ride came one of the great wars of history and a new nation was "conceived in liberty and dedicated to the principle that all men are created equal." A few colonies banded together and from them grew a great union of states. Popular sovereignty made the country famous and for nearly a century peace and happiness reigned. Then came a dis-united nation and but for the work of one man, Abraham Lincoln, this nation might have been severed.

Other wars were fought and then a few years ago the United States had to take part in another conflict to make the world safe for democracy.

And during all of the one hundred fifty years people have prospered. The citizens have in the main been happy and contented. We have treated our neighbors fairly and have been able to keep our own self respect.

No one can forsee what the next century and a half will bring but if we can judge the future by the past, the United States of America will always be the best place in the world in which to live.

BACK ON THE FARM

TODAY is Alumni Day at Stanford University. Grads of other years will be back on the Farm to renew old friendships and to view again the scenes of some of their happiest times.

It is a mighty good thing for grown men and women to go back to the scenes of their youth. It not only takes them out of the business activities in which they are engaged, but also causes them to think back to the carefree, happy days when their high resolves were the chief impulses of life. They can later go back to the present-day duties a little stronger and a bit better fortified for the problems that make up the daily life after a visit to the Alma Mater.

Any man or woman who had the opportunity of spending four happy years at Stanford is fortunate. In the olden days with Dr. Jordan as the leader, the gave him a better chance than he otherwise would have had. Those who came later and formed the close contact with Dr. Branner and then with Dr. Wilbur have been equally fortunate, but during Dr. Jordan's days the place was smaller and newer and the intimate associations of those who were making varsity history gave the college relations almost sacred significance.

Stanford's sons and daughters are numbered among the famous people of the nation. Some of them have made a name in politics, some in letters, ohers in business and professions and they are all loyal to their Alma Mater.

Today when they are out in the bleachers watching the events that are to feature the reunion they will all rise and stand uncovered when they hear again "Hail, Stanford, Hail." Many a man and many a woman will feel a catch in the throat as the old familiar strains come forth, and as they sing again the words of the Stanford hymn they will go back in mind to the time when they were boys and girls and carefree. It is a good thing for men and women to go back to the old places every once in a while.

PUBLIC SCHOOL WEEK MAY 11TH TO 15TH

California's Sixth Annual Public Schools' Week will be celebrated this year May 11th to May 15th, the ceremonies of the week being open to the general public and being held for the most part in the auditoriums of the public schools.

The San Francisco Board of Education this week granted the use of the auditorium of four of the largest public schools in the different districts of the city for the week's meetings.

During the week a feature will be made of the pageant play—"The Critical Hour," written by Doris McEntyre and E. W. Jacobsen of the Oakland School Department, the pageant being put on by the children of the different schools. Public Schools' Week was instituted by the Masonic Grand Lodge.

In addition to the tableau the week's sessions will be devoted to discussions by leading educators and laymen of standing of various criticisms that have been directed against the curriculum in the schools, the cost of education and methods of instruction.

The state-wide committee in charge of the week's activities is composed of Charles Albert Adams, chairman, Vaughan MacCaughey, secretary, Arthur Chamberlain, H. G. Burrowes and Elias Ellison, San Francisco; Robert A. Odell, Vierling Kersey, Harry S. Lasker, Lee T. Mullen, A. Gaylord Beaman, Los Angeles; Fred M. Hunter, Oakland; and Roy W. Cloud, Redwood City.

SAN CARLOS TRACT SOLD

An important sale of Peninsula property was closed this week by Lyon & Hoag, who have sold for the Boston Investment Co. 168 acres fronting on the State highway, near San Carlos, to the Koff Realty Co., of San Francisco. The tract which was formerly known as the Mary Brittan property is said to be one of the finest undeveloped subdivisions on the peninsula.

The property was acquired by the Boston Investment Co. through Lyon & Hoag less than a year ago and was resold at a substantial advance. R. H. Brotherton, manager of the peninsula department of Lyon & Hoag, who negotiated both transactions, reports an increasing interest in peninsula property by investors, particularly in large tracts of undeveloped land.

If every housewife realized how rapidly bacteria breed and multiply in perishable foods on pleasant Spring days, no home would be without ice for a single day in the Spring season. Even if the food doesn't spoil, the bacterial action robs it of much of its nourishing qualities. Often this is the underlying cause of sickness—especially among children. GAS FURNACES WIN APPROVAL IN STATE

All Old Nuisances Eliminated By New Warm Air Heating Systems

The humorist is losing a standard butt upon which to exercise his talent—at least in California—the old basement furnace. It is being replaced by the gas-fired heating system.

The gas warm air furnace has made marvelous strides in the past few years and has been brought to such a state of perfection that its operation seems nothing short of miraculous.

The burner in the furnace may be fired by a manual operation, or it may be fitted with an electric contrivance which requires merely the pressing of a button. That would seem to some the acme of convenience, but to others, it is almost archaic, because they are served by furnaces, fired with a clock starter and controlled by a thermostat regulator.

Cleanest of All Furnaces

However controlled, the gas fired warm air heating system is popular in California and for eight reasons: It efficiently accomplishes the purpose for which it was designed; it is clean, its control and operation are easy it works quickly, it is flexible, it is economical in operation, it is dependable, it is adaptable.

The cleanliness of a gas fired warm air heating system is its outstanding characteristic because there is no soot or ashes or any hard fuel troubles to bother about.

It is admitted to be healthful because of the fact that the heating is done by pure air heated to the proper degree and uniformly distributed.

Economical to Operate

The economy of operation of a gas-fired heating system of this type is realized when advantage is taken of the flexibility and ease of operation. The cost of gas fuel as compared with other fuels is in the long run reasonable when it is remembered that the heating service rendered is of such a nature that the expense and bother of tending a furnace burning hard fuel is eliminated. Relatively speaking, a gas furnace throughout any heating season will be found to be reasonably economical.

It is particularly adaptable to the California home because of the mild climate, which is also responsible for the extreme economy with which it may be operated. Ordinarily the minimum consumption of fuel gives ample heat for the average California home.

GAS AND ELECTRICITY ARE IMPROVING LIFE

Good gas, electric and other public utility services are of vital importance not only to the industrial development of any community, but to the well-being and happiness of the people themselves, declared Adam Gschwindt in a recent address to the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

"In the industrial upbuilding of communities, competition is first between continents, secondly between nations, then between states and finally between cities and towns, said Gschwindt.

ADVERTISEMENTS AND THE HOUSEWIFE

Liberal education, it has been said, may be obtained by watching the store windows of a progressive city. The same may be said of the advertisements appearing in a newspaper. One may learn much by the study of advertisements, and this is particularly true in regard to the wives and mothers whose sphere of work is so largely in the home.

Every device invented to lighten the work of a woman in her home has been advertised, and it is this which has made possible the sale and distribution of every new invention. Each was advertised once for the first time, even devises as common now as a cook stove. It is by watching the ads that the intelligent woman of today keeps posted on the latest helps with her work and the latest methods of doing things.

It is, therefore, with pleasuse that we present this page to the attention of our readers. No factor in lighteneng housework has been more essential than the development of gas appliances, and those illustrated herewith are the latest developments in this line. Every ad on this page is worthy deep consideration on the part of each housewife, and each has important information on this important subject.

The dealers of Redwood City are interested in showing you the latest things in kitchen appliances and household improvements. You are invited to stop at any store advertising on this page and inspect the new ranges, water heaters, garbage incinerators, heaters and other gas appliances. Whether you expect to buy or not, it is a duty you owe to yourself to become informed on the new improvements that have and are being made in these lines.

GOOD COOKING DEPENDS UPON CARE OF HEAT

Many Foods Improved By Use of Small Simmering Burner

The French have a saying, "the pot should only smile, not laugh," which accounts for much of the delicacy of flavor found in French foods. We Americans hurry everything, our foods included, and as a result our meals suffer, both in taste and in nutritive value.

Without a doubt, the careful manipulation of heat is the biggest factor in producing palatable food. While some foods, such as broiled steaks, baked potatoes, or biscuits, need high heat, and plenty of it, to produce perfect results, the majority of foods need more kindly treatment.

Use Simmering Burner

Half of the cooking done on the top burners of the gas range might be more satisfactorily carried on on the simmering burner, once the boiling point has been reached. To keep the pot "smiling" is the mission of this important, but often neglected burner.

No one has really eaten boiled ham until he tastes a slice of the sugar cured variety which has been cooked in hot cider over no more heat than this tiny burner gives. The toughest and stringiest piece of beef becomes a dignified dinner dish when simmered in spicy sauce, after first being browned over a hot flame. Even the powerful pressure cooker will maintain 20 pounds pressure, sufficient for any canning of meats and cereals.

New Way to Boil Eggs

Of the many kinds of food which are cooked over hot water, or is a double boiler, all may be handled on the simmering burner. Custards, cereals, puddings and the like, not only cook with less gas, but they require less watching, since the water does not boil away so rapidly, and there is little danger of burning.

To cook eggs properly, pour boiling water over them and place them over the simmering burner for 5 to 10 minutes, depending upon how soft they are desired.

SERVICE AFTER SALE IS VITAL TRADE POLICY

Customers and Dealers Are Always Benefited By Co-Operation

The business of any gas company is based on selling gas. To get gas service, however, appliances and fixtures must be sold. To sell them at a profit is good business, either for a dealer or the gas company itself, but real gas service means much more. The customer must be considered. He must be given more than he bargained for.

A gas stove, for instnce, may be well built and perfect in every way, but if its burners are improperly adjusted or its use not properly understood, the customer does not get a fair deal, and high gas bills do not have a tendency to improve the public relations of a gas company.

Service Departments

Consequently, gas companies maintain a service force not only to adjust appliances, but to give advice free upon request.

Some companies, however, have gone even further and maintain a home service department whose duty it is to follow up the sales of appliances and to see that all burners are properly adjusted as well as giving complete instruction as to their proper use. No distinction is made between aplances sold by the company and those sold by dealers, the service being given equally to any consumer of gas.

Everybody Benefits

The results obtained accrue to both the customer and the company. The customer does not waste gas and gets better results from the appliances; the company gains in goodwill both from the customers and the dealers.

This service is not confined to new appliances, but extends to old appliances as well because experience has shown that old burners get out of adjustment and should have more or less periodical inspection in order to prevent a waste of gas.

WATER HEATER REAL BOON TO HOUSEWIFE

Automatic Appliance Costs Little to Operate; Worth Weight in Gold

In the kitchen work of the household it isn't so much the cooking that is irksome as the dishwashing—one, two or three times a day, every day, week in and week out. At best it is a disagreeable, dirty, wearisome job. It ought to be made as nearly as possible, agreeable, clean and easy.

A wonderful contrivance is the water heater for this work. Turn the faucet and the water pressure opens a valve in the gas pipe, delivering fuel to the burner. The pilot fires the gas, which instantly heats a series of coils through which the water flows, emerging at the water tap scalding hot.

As long as the water flows, it flows hot. When the water is turned off the gas is automatically turned off and the fire goes out, all except the pilot, which remains on the job ready to fire the gas when the water is turned on again.

This invention is a boon to the housewife. Hot water—scalding hot—is available when it is wanted in an inexhaustible supply. No worry lest an excessive use in the kitchen sink may deplete the supply and leave only tepid water for the bath or laundry.

Dishwashing Made Easier

An abundant supply of hot water makes dishwashing easier. It does more than that—it makes it sanitary. Grease is soluble in hot water—not in cold water or tepid water, or even warm water. Even after washing and "stacking" there remains on the dishes a film of dishwater still carrying the grease and dirt in solution. This should be rinsed off in hot water—the hotter the better. Hot dishes dry quickly and clean. Clean dishes are sanitary. Greasy dishes are a menace to the health of the family, for grease is a beneficent host of disease germs.

First Presidential Salary

George Washington, the first President, refused a salary, saying that he would accept expenses only. President Washington kept a minute account the first year and found that he had spent 5,000 English pounds, about $25,000. For this reason the salary of the President was fixed at $25,000.

The Deacon Says

Some folks saddle their troubles on the world because they think it has so many to carry, a little more won't make any difference.—Atlanta Constitution.

CHARM OF OLD KITCHEN RECALLED BY OFFICIAL
By Angelo Rossi

The pleasantest hours of my early childhood were spent in my mother's kitchen. It was there that I learned the lessons that have helped me over many of the difficulties of my life.

I was born in a small town in Amador county that had a hand in the making of California history.

My widowed mother with a family of seven ran the general store of this small town and operated a small farm nearby. Each member of the family had his allotted task to perform. In the evenings, the kitchen, with its great old stove in the rear of the store, was our meeting place. After the supper dishes were cleared away, in which we all took a hand and helped. Then we gathered around the table for study or friendly discussion.

Perhaps it was the warmth and good cheer of our fashioned kitchen that made it our favorite meeting place, but I imagine the appetizing odors of my mother's wonderful Italian cooking, with its delicious seasoning and gravies, had a great deal to do with it.

Our kitchens are no longer our meeting places. Now we have luncheon clubs, where we go and endure the food for the sake of the friendship and the exchange of ideas.

Household Hints

Interesting Items of Interest to Women And Other Members of Family; Necessary Plumbing

DAILY CLEANING FOR PLUMBING FIXTURES

Farm Woman at Work in Improved Kitchen.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

All bathroom and sink fixtures should be cleaned daily, the United States Department of Agriculture reminds the housekeeper in Farmers' Bulletin, 1426, Farm Plumbing, in which directions are given not only for the care of plumbing but for its installation on a simple scale in rural districts.

No sharp or pointed utensil, sandpaper, coarse, gritty powder, scouring soap, oil, acid, or acid preparation should be used because they tend to injure the thin shiny glaze, literally the skin of enamel and vitreous wares. The treatment should be much the same as with table crockery, relying mainly on soap and hot water. As needed a very fine specially prepared cleaning powder costing 25 cents for one-pound cans may be used to remove grime and stains. A small quantity of the powder should be sifted on a damp cloth and the fixture be wiped out or lightly scoured, and rinsed with clean, warm water. A little kerosene on a cloth is sometimes used to remove paint and grease. Soap, water, and a brush are sufficient ordinarily for cleaning water closets. If a vitreous bowl has become badly incrusted, discolored, and foul smelling, a small quantity of chemical closet cleaner may be sifted into the water in the trap, be allowed to stand several hours and then be flushed away.

INSECTS DESTROYED BY HOUSE CENTIPEDE

Looked Upon as Aid in Keeping Pests in Check.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The house centipede, which is not a true insect, but a species of Myriapoda, or "thousand legs," is a creature of the damp, and sometimes becomes amazingly abundant in bathrooms, moist closets, cellars, conservatories, and near heating pipes. While its appearance and rapid, darting movements make it quite alarming to many people, it is really very cleanly in its habits, and aids in keeping down the number of such pests as house flies, roaches, moths, and other insects. Very few cases are recorded of these centipedes having bitten any human being. If pressed with the bare foot or hand, or if caught between sheets in beds, they might bite in self-defense, as would almost any other insect. The few cases on record where this has happened indicate that severe swelling and pain may result from the poison injected. Prompt dressing of the wound with ammonia is recommended.

Were it not for its unpleasant appearance and the rather poisonous nature of its bite, the house centipede might be looked on as an aid in keeping other pests in check. To control it, all individuals that are seen should be destroyed. All moist places where centipedes would naturally hide should be frequently inspected and dusted freely with fresh pyrethrum powder.

CHOOSING BEDDING QUITE IMPORTANT

Pride of Careful Housekeeper and Is Essential.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Good bedding is not only the pride of all careful housekeepers, but an essential part of a comfortable bed. It should include, says the United States Department of Agriculture, a lightweight mattress pad, sheets, pillowcases, blankets, a comfortable and a simple, washable spread.

A washable mattress pad, which may be bought ready-made, or made at home of muslin and cotton batting, not only protects the mattress, but improves the smoothness of the bed under the lower sheet. An old light-colored quilt or cotton blanket may be used for the purpose.

The quality of the sheets and pillowcases depends on the amount one wishes to invest in them. Considering only the materials and time used, ready-made sheets and pillowcases are often more economical than those made at home, but the latter have the great advantage of being made to fit a particular bed. Both sheeting and pillowcasing come in various widths, and the latter is also woven in tubular form so that no side seam is needed. Sheets should be from 24 to 36 inches wider and longer than the mattress, so that the ends and sides can be generously tucked in and the top of the upper sheet turned down to keep the blankets clean. The hem at the top of the sheet should be at least 2½ inches, and at the bottom from ¾ to 1 inch. Machine hemstitching makes a pretty finish for the pillowcases and the wider hem of a sheet, and in many communities is done for a small charge per yard.

Blankets containing a large proportion of good quality wool which has been heavily napped are generally considered more comfortable and also most satisfactory if given the proper care. Many reliable manufacturers state the percentage of wool on the card attached to the blanket. Cotton blankets are now made so that when new they are as warm as wool, and they are much less expensive. They tend, however, to become matted with wear and washing, which renders them less warm. Many power laundries can made them fluffy again, but this wears out the foundation fabric. Blankets without colored borders generally keep their shape better than those with them, and also there is no risk of color fading or running, but if one likes the touch of color, it is best to make sure that the border is of the same quality of wool as the rest of the blanket.

Comfortables are frequently needed during very cold weather. Both cotton and wool batting are used as the filling in comfortables, and though more expensive than cotton, wool is warmer in proportion to the weight, and easier to clean. Either kind of comfortable may be bought covered with cheesecloth ready for the outer cover of any pretty lightweight material. Comfortables may also be bought ready-made.

Striped dimity bedspreads with pillow shams to match are dainty, easy to launder, durable, and not expensive. Marseilles, crochet, and other specially woven materials are also used for counterpanes or spreads. If possible, it is well to have two spreads for each bed, so that they may be changed frequently.

Then She Gave Him Up

"Why did you break off your engagement?" "Oh, my dear, Jack became simply impossible. He criticized the way I dressed and objected to my friends, and always wanted me at his beck and call. Then on top of all that he suddenly went off and married another girl, so I made up my mind to have nothing more to do with him."

CHANCE TAKEN FROM COOKING

Inventions Assure Perfection Modern Meals

By Dr. Susan B. Hamilton
President Business and Professional Women's League

My ideal kitchen would have carefully planned arrangement of floor space, in order that too many steps need not be taken in preparing meals I should like first of all, a modern gas range, equipped with the latest inventions, so that baking or cooking of all kinds would be a matter of scientific planning, and not chance.

The colors I would like in a kitchen would be warm and cheerful. My ideal kitchen would have a floor covering of tan and brown with walls and woodwork tinted in a lighter tone, with gay cretonne curtains with a warm orange tone predominating. This kitchen need not be expensive, but should have as many labor-saving devices as possible. Pantries and wall racks with everything in place eliminate handling utensils unnecessarily. A simple device for storing dish towels, that I have found most convenient, is to place a brass curtain rod directly back of the range. On this rack damp dish towels may be hung out of the way. Dried by the heat of the range, they are soon ready for use a second time.

Good health and happiness depend to a large extent on good meals served on time and properly cooked. Too much thought cannot be given to this subject by any woman, whether she be a business woman or housewife.

AL. G. BARNES BIG 4 RING CIRCUS WILL EXHIBIT AT PALO ALTO, TUESDAY

The announcement of Al. G. Barnes Circus is one that always presents a clean, wholesome and entertaining program.

This year, according to announcements, the circus has been greatly enlarged, and in addition to the all new spectacle of Pocahontas at the Court of Queen Anne with the enormous cast, selected from the 1050 employees, other new features are: 180 horses in one big act, The Fez-Ton Tribe of Arabs from the Sahara Desert—their first visit to America, The Canton Troupe of Chinese Circus Artists, The Imperial Midget Family from Bavaria, Joe Martin (himself), The Giant Gorilla Man, Lotus, the only performing hippopotamus in the world, and the Famous Exclusive Al. G. Barnes Feature—40 Dancing Horses and 40 Dancing Girls, and Al. C. Barnes appears in person at each performance.

Owing to the enormous size of the circus this year, the management announces that no street parade will be given in any city visited, however, in place of the omitted procession, a mammoth Open Air Free Exhibition will take place on the show grounds at 1:00 and 7:00 p. m., immediately preceeding the opening of the doors to the circus, and the largest traveling managerie in the world, comprising over 400 rare animals from all quarters of the earth.

The circus performance starts promptly at 2:00 and 8:00 p. m. Ample parking space for autos is reserved on the show grounds and a city ticket office, where numbered reserved chairs may be obtained at same price charged on the show grounds, is maintained in each city.

In Earth's Interior

It is strange that an expedition into the earth's interior has never been seriously attempted. If we could sink a shaft only twelve miles into the ground we might strike all the coal and oil that would be needed in a million years. In all likelihood we should find radium, gold, silver, diamonds and other gems of untold wealth, as well as wonderful metals and fresh sources of energy.—London Times.

Cleaning Without Odor by the
F. Thomas Process

Our many years of experience has taught us that it is impossible to do perfect cleaning with cheap, inferior methods. That is why we found it necessary to invest nearly $500,000 in the equipment of a plant and the establishment of an expert organization to do the quality of work demanded by our customers.

With the "F. Thomas Process" we not only remove every particle of dust but we return your garments without that usual disagreeable smell of gasoline. Every drop of gasoline we use in cleaning is redistilled and very highly refined.

Raw gasoline—the kind that you buy for your automobile—is full of heavy oils and unfit for cleaning fabrics. It is little better than ordinary distillate and leaves a sickening "gasoline" smell in your clothes

LEGISLATIVE LETTER

By C. W. TURNER

Sacramento.—Owing to the controversy concerning a budget of the proposed expenditures of the Highway commission, the legislature has postponed its date for adjournment until April 24. It will, even to get through by that date, have to rush through a large number of bills that now lumber up its calendar.

The governor has again repeated his statement that he does not propose that the legislature shall make any raid upon the $5,000,000 accumulated as a surplus in the treasury. That sum will be kept there for emergencies, and if eventually the accumulation in the treasury becomes too large, taxation will be lowered and a part of the surplus used to meet any resulting deficiency and not for "pork barrel" purposes.

In relation to this latter purpose the governor asks the people to write to their senators and assemblymen to refrain from rushing through local appropriation bills, as there is no chance of their receiving his signature. The governor, however, is probably appealing in this case to deaf ears. The two houses are all the more ready to pass bills carrying appropriations because they know the governor will veto them. The members, with a veto to protect the treasury, are in a position to help each other and to pass bills carrying appropriations for this or that purpose, which even if vetoed will enable them to go home and "pass the buck"—to use the vernacular of the day—to the governor for not bringing home the money, or as the late Congressman Tom Clunie was wont to call it, "the pork," for this or that local object.

An interesting debate arose over an amendment to the workmen's compensation act, proposed by the Christian Scientists, to allow persons suffering industrial mishaps to be treated by prayer or spiritual means and need not have to submit to any physical or medical examination. The California League for the Conservation of Public Health and many employers are opposing the amendment.

Under a bill by Senator Breed, amending the motor vehicle act, bicycles are considered as vehicles and subject to all the regulations effecting other vehicles, such as carrying lights, limiting their speed, etc. Licenses will expire the first Monday in March instead of the first day of February.

Unloaded electric trucks are to pay $40 if weighing less than 6,000 pounds, $60 if over that weight to 10,000 pounds and $80 if they weigh over the latter figure. Old automobiles with lighting equipment from the magneto are exempt from the provisions of the headlight law until 1927. Dogs can not be carried on the running boards of automobiles unless a special safety device is fixed to the running board to prevent them from falling off. The use of muffler cut outs is prohibited on any public highway whether within the limits of a municipality or not. Automobiles which have a small box for carrying supplies or which farmers use to carry their own products to market are not in future to be classed as commercial vehicles.

The endless delays in our courts have resulted in the submission to the people by the legislature of a constitutional amendment which creates a judicial council to consist of ten judges from various parts of the state over whom the chief justice of the supreme court is to preside, and who will study the question of simplifying and improving the administration of justice in this state, the object being to shorten trials and remove technicalities.

The Highway commission appeared before the senate committee and explained what it proposed to do with some of the money that it was to receive from the state. The allocation given the counties south of the Tehachapi the bulk of $2,625,000 which the commission has set aside for new construction. Of the division of funds 64% goes to the north and the balance to the south. Of the share which goes north, 98% is said to have been already contracted for. It was announced that there could be no allocation for 1926 because the increase in the gasoline tax has not been definitely settled and until that is done the funds that will be available are not known. All the money now definitely in sight has been contracted for or allocated.

Mrs. Saylor is the authoress of a bill that should prove interesting to her sisters all over the state. It is known as an anti-lottery or gambling bill and proposes to apply the abatment system now employed against houses selling liquor or those engaged for immoral purposes in the red light district. They are closed for a longer or shorter term by order of the courts.

Under the Saylor bill any place including private residence or churches where cards were played for money, no matter how trifling, or there was a raffle or lottery, would be closed, and the persons would be severely punished.

The assembly refused to endorse the scheme for a welfare committee of nine women to investigate the moral condition of the state.

Oleomargarine lobby promises to take butter substitute measure to people in referendum if signed by governor.

BEST BROILING POSSIBLE WITH MODERN RANGE

Flames Carried Away But Full Flavor of Meat Is Retained

Broiling over an open flame has long been considered an ideal way to cook. Food experts say foods commonly cooked in the frying pan are far more digestible when subjected to the direct heat of the broiler. Persons who have taste for their guide know that the brownedness of a broiled steak is more palatable than any piece of fried meat.

In the days of the old range, broiling was a nine days' wonder. Only a bed of smokeless, glowing coals could be used. It was no easy job to have the fire at this stage at the particular moment the steak was to be broiled. With the cover lifted off the firebox, there was no place for the acrid smoke of the burning fat to go but out in the room. The worst of its was that the delicious juice and melted fat dripped right down into the fire and literally "went up in smoke."

The modern method of broiling is easy and much more satisfactory. The gas flame is always ready to give just the proper amount of heat for searing. The smoke of burning fat and the odors of food are carried right up the flue, and since the flame is over, not under the food, the juices drip into the clean, boiling pan, and the full favor of the food is obtained.

SUPERVISORS MEET TALK ABOUT HOSPITAL

Admission of Free Patients From Out of County Is Charged

The hospital and its conduct formed the piece de resistance for one of the hotest sessions held by the board of supervisors of San Mateo county for some time. The matter broke before the board when Supervisor Hickey of the First township made a motion that all members of the hospital advisory committee be appointed by the board of supervisors directly instead of by the commission as at present. This motion was seconded by Supervisor Brown of the Second township.

To this motion Supervisor Thompson offered a strenuous opposition. The commission should be first consulted in the matter and allowed to amend the by-laws, said Thompson and offered an amendment which would have laid the matter over until the next meeting. Upon the motion being voted upon with this amendement, it was defeated, only Supervisors Thompson and Francis voting in favor of it.

Chairman MacBain then put the motion before the board without the amendment and it was passed. Supervisors Brown, Hickey and MacBain voting for its passage and Thompson and Francis voting against it.

Immediately upon the passage of this motion, Supervisor Thompson, who is a member of the hospital commission tendered his resignation from that body. Action on Thompson's resignation was, however, laid over for the present, after he had been urged to reconsider his action by the other supervisors.

Thimpson then moved that Dr. Wood C. Baker, county physician; Miss Margaret Loftus, county nurse, and Miss Genevieve Roberts, newly appointed superintendent of the hospital, be cited to appear before the board and explain why patients from outside of the county were being admitted into the hospital free. This motion was seconded by Supervisor Brown and carried without dissent.

ELECTRIC LIGHT HELD ESSENTIAL FOR DIGESTION

By placing an electric light over the abdomen, experts say, digestion can be stimulated. Light from an ordinary incandescent lamp has a germicidal effect and will relieve pain.

This is a discovery of special consequence. Soon the well appointed table will include a light plug at each place. Gentlemen after dinner will carry lights amidship to show that they have dined. The lighting systems of our cabarets will acquire a new significance.

But it should not go too far. When eating dinner requires an instrument board and as much technique as driving an automobile, science has progressed far enough. The naive pangs of colic are better than digestion with a machine shop.

TANKO AND HALL ROBBERY SUSPECTS

Suspected of having engaged in at least two holdups since their escape from San Quentin last week, Joe Tanko and Floyd Hall, sentenced from the Superior court here for the murder of Officer Meehan of San Bruno, are still at large and are being sought by the police of the state.

The first recorded holdup of the men since their escape from the prison was that of Nels Peterson, Santa Rosa rancher who was robbed and then bound and gaged while the two thugs drove away with his car. This occured near Novato in Marin county. The second holdup was that of Clementine Martinez, a Sacramento mechanic in Sacramento. The two bandits met Martinez in a pool hall in Sacramento, forced him to get into a car, which proved to be the one stolen from Peterson and drove out of town to a surburb. During the ride Martinez was kept under the point of a gun. Arriving in the outskirts of the town the men proceeded to rob Martinez of his clothes, of $100 and left him bound beside the road.

Peterson's car was later discovered abandoned near Davis. The robbery of a hardware store in Santa Rosa in which guns and ammunition were stolen is also laid to the two escaped convicts. Both men who attacked Martinez are said to have been armed.

Ancient English Guild

In the Isle of Purbeck, from which came the stone for Westminster abbey and many other ancient structures, the quarries belong to an old and exclusive guild. A candidate for admission to it must be the son of a freeman, though a freeman's wife is made a freewoman on paying one shilling—the "marriage shilling." In the event of his death she can carry on his business.—London Tit-Bits.

Those who are worried about Menlo Park becoming an annex to Palo Alto need no longer worry for Governor Richardson has vetoed the Spalding bill that would have enabled the city of Palo Alto to annex contiguous territory in another county. That's that. Now what will be the next suggestion concerning Menlo Park. Shall it be incorporation?

"Burnt War Department"

The War department was housed in a building on the south side of Pennsylvania avenue between Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets, and this was destroyed by fire in 1801. The blackened walls stood for many years and the ruin was known as the "Burnt War Department."

In the days of the "Pharoahs" of "Old Egypt" it was thought that the animal life of their land was under the special dispensation of the "Gods," and for that reason most animals were reverenced by the population as a lucky omen

One of their most favored animals was the "Lucky Turtle," which, while they last, we are "Giving Away FREE" with each 50c package of LAC-LAX Delicious Candy Laxative.

Many and Varied Are Sources of Happiness

A quaint and well-loved philosopher asserted his belief that one must get happiness out of one's work or never know what happiness is. The dictum remains unchallenged, as such things usually do; yet this philosopher's wisdom was the product of his limitations and was inspired by the poverty of his experience.

Observe, by way of refutation, the man who burns powder.' An autumn day finds him afield, striding through stubble in the wake of a brown-eyed dog. The air is crisp and sweet; the distant hills are blue; the sky above is without a cloud. The dog becomes a statue; there is a whirr of wings; the two barrels of gun roar in quick succession. This isn't work, but no fabled king ever was happier than this bronzed hunter.

Observe the man on his hands and knees. He is a bear. He growls. He advances with great stealth. Behind a chair a small boy crouches, affecting terror. There is a rush, a very bedlam of ferocious growls, and then ecstatic squeals as the capture is completed. An undignified business, perhaps; but not work. Yet who could be happier than this man who romps with his son?

Observe the woman in the chair, interminably rocking, interminably knitting. The rocking and the knitting are not work; they are but accompaniments to the serious business of life. The serious business is talking—interminably talking—about people and their frailities. The dear woman enjoys the sound of her voice; enjoys the appreciative silence of her audiences. The world holds none who are happier than she.

Observe the sober folks who sit in pews. Their faces are lighted by a peace that passes understanding. They have found happiness.

Observe the young woman on the street, rouged, powdered, freshly bobbed, garbed from head to toe as fashion decrees. She pauses at a shop window to inspect her image. There is nothing on her mind except her precious self. She is a dream and she knows it. And in all the world there is no bliss so flawless and so complete as hers.

Happiness, in short, is for those who have the capacity for it.

Grave of Noted Chief?

An ancient Indian grave believed to hold the remains of Chief Am-puh, the Piute Indian leader after whom the city of Nampa, Idaho, was named, has been found by R. W. Limbert, whose explorations in the country now known as the Craters of the Moon national monument contributed greatly to national recognition of that territory, says a dispatch from Pocatello, Idaho.

While hunting in the desert close to the Navada line recently, Mr. Limbert said he found a flat rock upon which there was carved an arrow. Following the general direction of the arrow he found other rocks with similar carvings. The end of the line of arrow rocks was a huge mound of stones with a flat one resting horizontally on top.

The flat rock was engraved crudely with the figure of an Indian with abnormally large feet and hands; around the figure was a circle, the death sign of the Piutes.

The dead chief is reputed to have had enormously large feet and hands and it is a tradition that one of his feet was six inches wide and eighteen inches long. The attempt of the carver to show the large hands and feet leads Limbert to believe that it is the grave of Chief Nam-puh.

Give Up Horseshoe Making

Manufacturing horseshoes is no longer profitable, the United States Steel corporation finds, automobiles having so thoroughly displaced the horse in America. Announcement has been made that the American Steel and Wire company, one of the larger subsidiaries of the Steel corporation, has sold the machinery, stock and good will of its horseshoe department to the Phoenix Horseshoe company of Chicago. The demand for horseshoes, it was said, had dwindled to such an extent that the company found it could devote the space required by its horseshoe plant to better advantage by manufacturing products more generally in demand.

Origin of Football

However ancient their origins most of our popular games date back only to the athletic revival of the Nineteenth century. As an instance, football. Not till the foundation of the football association in 1863 and the Rugby Football union in 1871 can the two games we know today be said to have taken legal shape. During the Seventeenth century, probably owing to the Puritan movement, football declined in town and country.

Electricity in Homes

Electricity is now used in half the homes of the United States. From figures for January 1, 1925, it is estimated that the total population of the country is 113,809,000 people and the total number of homes 23,290,889. Also on this date there were 13,252,985 homes wired for electric service. Thus 56.4 per cent of the homes of the nation are now able to enjoy the comfort and convenience of electricity.

TWO LARGE STILLS RAIDED IN COLMA

Federal prohibition officers, aided by Sheriff McGovern, Constable A. S. Landini, Chief of Police Jack Doyle captured two alleged dealers in illicit liquor. The two men arrested were Jerry Wright, in whose Daly City residence two large stills were found in operation, and Nick Daukas, proprietor of a Colma restaurant, on whose premises a bottle of moonshine whiskey was found.

Highly Imaginary

The "Land of Cockaigne" was an imaginary land of idleness and plenty in which the houses were roofed with cake, the rivers ran with wine and roasted fowl offered themselves to be eaten. The name was applied in derision to both London and Paris following the writing of a satirical poem entitled "The Land of Cockaigne" about 1300.

Value of Good Reading

Herbert Spencer and other philosophers have advised the daily reading of some page or even single paragraph of great literature, dwelling on the sublime, majestic and beautiful in nature and life as a means of purging the soul of pettiness, greed and vulgarity.

Harsh Punishments

Sometimes in the ancient days of Milan a fine was imposed for larceny; at other times the foot of the criminal was amputated. In cases of forgery the right hand was amputated, as a rule. Burial alive was the fate met by some forgers.

Keeping Down Pests

If it were not for the natural enemies of every insect, many that are not especially obnoxious now would soon become universal pests. Government experiments a few years ago showed that about 95 per cent of native caterpillars are killed by parasites.

Christian Science Temple

The original cost of the land on which the mother church of Boston Christian Science, was built (Gift of Mrs. Eddy) was $20,000. The cost of the original edifice was $200,000, including the organ, which cost $10,000. The estimated present value of the lot, with its extension, is $150,000, and the cost of the temple extension $2,000,000. Its seating capacity is 5,000 and it was dedicated in 1906.
